JOB DESCRIPTION

The Project Coordinator will be responsible for the day-to-day coordination of BHRC's varied programme of projects and interventions. Whilst some of these are long-term, others require flexibility and speed to respond to short-term developing situations. As such, the individual must be able to work independently and will have strong administrative and project management skills to support the activities of BHRC's Chair and Executive Committee, as well as the delivery of programmes by its wider membership. Experience of the international human rights or international development sector is essential. Knowledge of human rights law or advocacy is highly desirable since the successful applicant may use and rely on that knowledge to further BHRC's mission and build on its expanding body of work in conjunction with the Chair and Executive Committee. Experience in fundraising is essential since the role involves relationship-building and applications with present and potential funders. The Project Coordinator must have strong communication skills, ensuring effective dissemination of BHRC's publications, including drafting newsletters, press releases, social media and web content, as well as professional interpersonal skills. The Project Coordinator is the first point of contact for BHRC members, donors, partner organisations and supporters.

ABOUT THE BAR HUMAN RIGHTS COMMITTEE

The Bar Human Rights Committee of England and Wales (BHRC) is an independent and non-politically aligned body of barristers called to the Bar of England and Wales, committed to the broad principles of the rule of law, democracy and human rights.

BHRC members are predominately barristers (including pupil barristers), but also include some law students and legal academics. BHRC members include some of the UK's foremost human rights barristers and legal practitioners, who offer their time and services pro bono, alongside their independent legal practices, teaching commitments and legal studies.

BHRC elects an Executive of sixteen members to lead on the policy, strategy and delivery of its work. They are supported by one full-time Project Coordinator, an Advisory Board, and a wider membership across the Bar of England and Wales.

BHRC's mission is to protect and promote international human rights through the rule of law, by using the international human rights law expertise of some of the UK's most experienced and talented human rights barristers, who are willing to work pro bono.

The remit of BHRC extends to all countries of the world, apart from its own jurisdiction of England and Wales. This reflects the Committee's need to maintain its role as an independent but legally qualified observer, critic and advisor.

BHRC provides training, resources and guidance to support the development of human rights protection in partnership with local lawyers and NGOs. It raises awareness of human rights abuses through trial observations, fact-finding missions and letters of concern to government officials. It may also intervene through the submission of amicus curiae briefs or similar, across various courts and international mechanisms.
